

Master of Philosophy (MPhil) and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) Programs in Management

Curriculum for Master of Philosophy (MPhil) Program in Management

The Master of Philosophy (MPhil) program is a research-oriented degree that aims to prepare students for a research and teaching career in universities and research institutes. The program has a global perspective with a focus covering areas in Organizational Behavior, Human Resources Management, Corporate Strategy, and Organization Theory. The MPhil program is intended to be taken as the first part of the Doctor of Philosophy program.

Program Requirements

a) Introductory Quantitative Requirement

Unless students have clearly demonstrated sufficient knowledge in the area, students entering the MPhil program are required to take the following two mathematics-oriented courses in the first regular term of study. The credits earned from these two courses cannot be counted toward the degree requirements.

ECON 5100 Mathematics for Business and Economics ISOM 5540 Introduction to Probability

b) Course requirement
