

Master of Arts (MA) Program in International Language Education

Academic Directors:

Arthur MCNEILL, Associate Dean of Humanities and Social Science
Min ZHANG, Associate Professor of Humanities

The Master of Arts (MA) program in International Language Education offers an advanced English-taught postgraduate education in two specialized concentrations: Teaching English as a Second Language (TESL) and Teaching Chinese as a Second Language (TCSL), for qualified candidates to teach English or Chinese as a second language. Taught by experts with an integrated combination of extensive teaching and research experience in bilingual contexts, the program aims to prepare language professionals for a dynamic global career, with a solid foundation in applied linguistics and research-informed language teaching approaches.

Admission Requirements

1. A bachelor's degree from a recognized university or equivalent;
2. English requirements for applicants whose first language is not English and whose degree or equivalent qualification was awarded by an institution where the medium of instruction was not English:
 - For Chinese (TCSL) Concentration applicants: IELTS \geq 6.5 (all sub-scores \geq 5.5), or TOEFL iBT \geq 85 (Writing \geq 20/30)
 - For English (TESL) Concentration applicants: IELTS \geq 7.0 (Writing \geq 7.0, and other sub-scores \geq 5.5), or TOEFL iBT \geq 100 (Writing \geq 27/30)
3. Chinese requirements for TCSL Concentration applicants:
 - Applicants whose first language is not Chinese and whose degree or equivalent qualification was awarded by an institution where the medium of instruction was not Chinese are required to fulfill the Chinese requirement of Hanyu Shuiping Kaoshi (HSK by Hanban or the "New HSK") level 5 or above.
 - Applicants whose first language is Chinese or whose degree or equivalent qualification was awarded by an institution where the medium of instruction was Chinese must demonstrate their Chinese proficiency by obtaining the National Putonghua Proficiency Test (PSC) grade 2B or above.

Applicants must declare the concentration they apply for at the time of application. Any transfer between the two concentrations must be approved by the Academic Directors, and is contingent on whether students can meet the language proficiency requirement of the concentration they would like to transfer to. Double-concentration is not allowed.
